LANDSCAPING

the right tree in the right place

TREES CONSERVE ENERGY

- ★ Deciduous trees, like sycamore, oak, maple and birch, planted on the south and west sides of the house, will keep your house cool in the summer and let the sun warm your home in the winter, reducing energy use. A well-planned landscape can reduce an unshaded home's air conditioning costs by 15–20 percent. (U.S. Department of Energy)
- ★ Just three trees, properly placed around a house, can save up to 30 percent of energy use. Planting a row of conifer trees on the north and northwest sides of your property creates a wall against cold winter winds. (U.S. Forest Service Center for Urban Forest Research)
- ★ Trees or shrubs planted to shade air conditioners help cool a building more efficiently, using less electricity. A unit operating in the shade uses as much as 10 percent less electricity than the same one operating in the sun. (U.S. Department of Energy)
- ★ Consider power line location when planting a tree. Trees that grow into power lines cause electrical outages to your home and increase line maintenance costs.

LANDSCAPING FOR WINDBREAKS

A windbreak reduces heating costs by lowering the wind chill near your home. It also creates dead air space that insulates your home in the summer and winter.

Maple tree

PLANTING TIPS

Plant a 6–8 foot deciduous tree near your home, and it will start shading your windows in the first year. Depending on the species and the home, it will shade the roof in 5–10 years.

Oak tree

Plant deciduous trees to the south of your home—they can screen 70–90 percent of the hot summer sun while allowing breezes through.

Plant trees with crowns lower to the ground on the west if you want to shade from lower, afternoon sun angles.

Hens and chicks is a type of succulent groundcover plant.

Plant bushes, shrubs or climbing vines with a trellis to shade your patio area.

To cool air before it reaches your home, plant shrubs and groundcover plants.

TRIMMING FUTURE PROBLEMS

As you can probably guess, weather-related events cause the majority of power outages for Wake Electric. But vegetation—trees, shrubs, brush—growing too close to power lines and distribution equipment also lead to power interruptions.

To “cut back” on potential tree-related problems, Wake Electric operates a year-round right-of-way maintenance program. Our contractors look for foliage growing under lines, overhanging branches, leaning or other types of “danger” trees that could pull down a power line if they fall, as well as trees that could grow into lines.

In working to keep a safe, reliable, and affordable supply of power flowing to your home or business, we need your help. Let us know if you notice trees or branches that might pose a risk to our power lines.

Even more important, before planting trees in your yard, think about how tall they may grow and how wide their branches may spread. As a rule of thumb, 25 feet of ground-to-sky clearance should be available on each side of our utility poles to give power lines plenty of space. Choose tree varieties with care and plant with power lines in mind.

Thanks for your help as we work together to keep electricity reliable.

To report trees you think may pose a problem, call 919-863-6300 or 800-474-6300. To find out more about proper tree planting, visit www.arboday.org.

Wake Electric Has Money to Return to Former Members

Because Wake Electric is a not-for-profit utility, when we make money beyond our operating costs, we return that money to our members in the form of "capital credits." Because the formula for distribution is based on prior years of operation, often customers who are entitled to capital credits have moved and it is difficult to locate them. If the U.S. Postal Service returns a capital check to us, we make every effort to locate the person entitled to the check. The following is a list of people who have had their checks returned to us because their address is not correct. If you see your name or the names of family, friends or associates, please have them contact Wake Electric at 800-474-6300, 919-863-6300, or email us at information@wemc.com. You can also visit our website for the names at www.wemc.com.
